

We are a network of classroom teachers, veteran educators, industry professionals and friends of scholastic journalism dedicated to providing resources, advocacy and mentorship. Serving Texas journalism teachers and students, TAJE's goal is to provide resources, advocacy and mentorship for our members.

WHAT TAJE DOES:

- Provides outreach, mentorship and workshops to all areas of the state by supporting regional representatives elected by members in their respective regions. Private schools have their own representative.
- Supports New Voices of Texas, a youth-led advocacy movement consisting of student leaders organized to enact legislation to challenge the consequences of the 1988 Hazelwood v. Kuhlmeier Supreme Court decision.
- Provides members with experiences and info for developing successful teaching of journalism and directing of publications by hosting its annual Fall Fiesta convention.
- Provides information at taje.org, on social media and in state and regional workshops on new developments, trends, practices and standards to raise the quality of student-produced media.
- Works with the Texas Education Agency and the State Board of Education to establish professional criteria for journalism education.
- Supports and works closely with other scholastic journalism organizations by sharing information and collecting membership dues for:
 - Journalism Education Association
 - Association of Texas Photography Instructors
 - National Scholastic Press Association
 - Columbia Scholastic Press Association
 - Southern interscholastic Press Association

WHO TAJE HONORS:

- Administrator of the Year Award honors campus/district leadership who supports the journalism education experience.
- Texas Journalist of the Year honors a graduating senior for their work on publications throughout their academic career. The winner and runners-up are recognized at the ILPC Spring Awards Ceremony.
- Pathfinder Award honors journalism educators with seven years (or fewer) experience.
- Trailblazer Award honors educators who set trends and shape Texas journalism.
- Friend of Journalism Award honors efforts to expand the scope and capability of Texas scholastic journalism.
- Texas Treasure honors individuals who spent their careers in Texas journalism and helped, advised, guided and directed other journalism teachers in the state.

HOW WE PAY IT FORWARD:

- $1,500 Bill Taylor Memorial Scholarship for the Texas Journalist of the Year. The Texas JOY is entered in the Journalism Education Association's national competition.
- $1,000 scholarships awarded to four graduating seniors
- Six $150 summer workshop scholarships for students
- Three $250 summer workshop scholarships for teachers
